THE subscriber wishes to purchase 20,000lbs. of good GINSENG, well washed, dried and sifted. The Farmer who has a surplus of hands, perhaps too tender for more laborious work; the needy families who have to depend on the caprices of fortune for a temporary subsistence, ought now to leave their less profitable work and gather Ginseng, which will bring the Cash, necessaries of life, or wearing apparel. No matter how small the quantity of Ginseng, so that it is well washed, dried and sifted, and sound roots. The subscriber will attend to it. ALEXANDER LOGAN.

September 8, 1815.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.

LATEST FROM FRANCE.

Arrived at 1 o'clock, the schr. Maria, Brevort in 27 days from Havre de Grace. By this arrival we have received French papers to the 1st of August, containing Paris dates to the 29th of July inclusive. Translations from these papers will be found below.

PARIS, JULY 29.

The Duke of Orleans arrived last evening at 10 o'clock. His serene highness, who landed at Bologne, came in 50 hours from his country seat in London. He was immediately admittd to his Majesty, who received the prince, his nephew, with cordiality and perfect kindness.

It appears that the King has already supplied the places of those Peers who had accepted seats in the upper chamber of Bonaparte.

The Prussian troops this morning manœuvred in the Champ-de-mars.

The journals which have announced the arrival at Paris of the prince of Eckmuhl, have been led into an error. He has not yet arrived.

In consequence of new arrangements. his highness prince Maurice Lichtenstein, Lt. Gen. com'g the Austrian troops at Paris, has ordered that from this day, the officers and soldiers of the garrison of Paris, under his orders, shall not exact any provisions from the individuals at whose houses they are lodged. The officers are to maintain themselves at their own expence; the soldiers will receive rations of provisions at the regular stores. The inhabitants will only have to furnish henceforth, lodgings to the Austrian troops.

The declaration of England which replaces us, in respect to that nation, in the state of peace in which we were before the 20th of March last, has inspired the greatest confidence in the generous intentions of the allied sovereigns. We hope that the noble effort of England to cause to cease the evils which she has already sought to render as light as possible, will be completely imitated on the continent; and that the measures ordained to regulate the charges of the war will be followed by measures to lessen them. The interests of the farmer and of the mechanic, are without doubt, in the eyes of the powers allied to the King of France, as precious as those of the merchant. Every thing announces that this wish will be fulfilled in a few days.

It is said that M. Carnot has retired to Switzerland.

The Prussian troops have quitted Orleans and the environs, for the purpose of advancing.

The 3d August is the birth day of the King of Prussia: his majesty will on that day enter his 46th year.

Gen. Clauzel whose flight has been announced in many papers, and his arrest by others, was still at Bordeaux on the 25th inst.

The French army is concentrating in Berry and Auvergne. The head quarters is at Bourges.

The roads of Burgundy are covered with the allied troops.

It appears that in Auvergne there prevails agitation of mind; that the country people are so badly disposed, so inclined to revolutionary troubles and disorders, that the old nobles and the rich take the precaution of retiring to the cities.

The corps of gen. Excelmans is cantoned in the arondisement of Rion. He has a considerable park of artillery.

Many letters announce that much pillage nas been committed in the city of Nismes, and in the neighboring country by the troops from Marseilles and the other parts of Provence. More than 30 houses mostly belonging to the rich merchants, have been destroyed in the city of Nismes, since the city guard, the gendarmerie and the troops of the line have been disarmed.

More than 20,000 white flags flying from the windows and other places in the city of Bordeaux. On the 24th, at the theatre of that city, they made a bonfire of the tri-colored flag.

Cardinal Fesch and madame Letitia, (Bonaparte's mother) were on the 23d at Bourg, (Ain) and left it next day.

Cardinal Maury has been imprisoned in the castle of St. Angelo: he is accused of intrigues connected with some late events.

PARIS, July 23.

An ordinance of the king, comprised in seven articles approves and confirms the assessment, "destined to maintain the allied troops and to cover the expenditures occasioned by their presence." This imposition is to be discharged in quarters, one fourth every fortnight; the first to be paid in fifteen days from the publication of the present ordinance.

The ordinance of his majesty, purporting that until the first of July, 1816, neither nomination nor promotion shall be made in the land army, has been extended to the marine department.

The fortifications of Paris, now become useless, are forthwith to be demolished.

Yesterday they commenced constructing on the whole length of the counter-alley of the Champ-de-Mars, on the north side of the Fosse, a barrack, &c. to receive some regiments of the allied troops.

A contribution to which the powers are entitled for the expences of this second war, will be determined by treaty; nevertheless it is asserted that two of them, satisfied with having secured the repose of the world, have generously declared that they renounce all sort of indemnity. It is also asserted, that immediately after the conclusion of the treaty the troops of three of the powers will quit our territory: that 150,000 Russians will remain in it some time longer; that their departure will take place in columns of 25,000 men, as fast as the reorganization of the French army. It is added, that not to nourish the hope of party, and to dissipate the smallest umbrage, the Emperor of Austria has declared the first that he will not leave in France a single corps of his army.

ALENSON, JULY 25.

A party of 400 Prussian cavalry have entered here, and demanded forthwith the sum of 400,000 francs.

CAPTURE OF CEYLON.

By the arrival at Alexandria of the ship America, Luckett, intelligence has been received of the capture of the island of Ceylon. This information was communicated to Capt. L. on the 27th July, by the British frigate Nigar, 49 days from the East Indies, bound to England. The Nigar had on board the Crown and Throne of the King of Ceylon, valued at eight millions sterling. The Island was captured by the English after a hard fought action, in which the British lost two general officers and many men.

The Commander of the Nigar stated, that the American privateers had been very numerous in the East Indies.

BONAPARTE'S OFFICERS.

A vessel from Newfoundland has been spoken, Aug. 18th, which informed, that an American vessel from France, detained and sent in there by a British cruizer, had on board a number of French officers. They doubtless belong to the list which Louis the 18th has proscribed and ordered to be tried by Courts martial, for treason.

From the Philadelphia Gazette, Sept. 12, 1815.

Although it is a matter of very little importance to the public, we can state it as a fact, that the fugitive King Joseph, of Spain and Naples is now in this city. His present quarters are at the Washington Hall Hotel. He is accompanied by two or three French gentlemen, whose names and former rank are not precisely known. He also has an American gentleman in his suite at present.

Since the above was in type, we are informed that the ex-king and suite departed from Washington Hall Hotel, early this morning for the southward.

A POLITICAL INCENDIARY.

A gentleman, recently arrived here, from New Orleans, has politely furnished us with the following extraordinary circular, which appeared there in handbills. It remains to be known whether the government will allow a band of desperadoes to assail (under the pretence of promoting "the best interests of humanity") the provinces of a nation, with whom it should be our study to cultivate the relations of peace.

New Orleans.

"SIR—The favourable moment has at length arrived for making a successful attempt in favour of the Patriots of New Spain. The enterprize offers an easy road to distinction, and promises a glorious reward for merit. The place of rendezvous is Belle Isle, near the mouth of Caffalia. About 500 chosen men, amongst whom are some late commissioned officers of the U. S. army will accompany me from that place to Matagorda, where we land; thence to Labahia is thirty five miles. At Labahia, on the river San Antonio, about forty miles from the seacoast and eighty miles from San Antonio, I will wait for reinforcements from Natchitoches, &c. Labahia will fall an easy sacrifice; it is badly defended and its weakness is well known.

"Sabala, the proscribed patriot, a native of the province of Yacatan, and delegate from thence to the Cortes of Spain, accompanies me. We have arms and ammunition; 1000 men already engaged. and can calculate largely on aid from Tennessee and Kentucky. The country through which we pass, and seat of our operations, abounds in cattle and sheep, and nothing will be wanting to ensure complete success. Our cause embrases the best interest of humanity—the general enlargement of an oppressed people, and all the blessings attendant upon unrestrained commerce and industry, this too accompanied by a prospect of incalculable advantage to the U. States.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas information has been received, that sundry persons, citizens of the U. S. or residents within the same, and especially within the state of Louisiana, are conspiring together, to begin and set on foot, provide and prepare, the means for a military expedition or enterprize against the dominions of Spain, with which the U. S. are happily at peace; that for this purpose they are collecting arms, military stores, provisions, vessels, and other means; are deceiving and seducing honest and well meaning citizens to engage in their unlawful enterprizes; are organizing, officering, and arming themselves for the same, contrary to the laws in such case made and provided: I have therefore thought fit to issue this my proclamation, warning and enjoining all faithful citizens who have been led, without due knowledge or consideration, to participate in the said unlawful enterptizes, to withdraw from the same without delay; and commanding all persons whatsoever, engaged or concerned in the same, to cease all further proceedings therein, as they will answer the contrary at their peril: And I hereby enjoin and require, all officers, civil and military of the U. S. or of any of the states or territories, all judges, justices, and other officers of the peace, all military officers of the army or navy of the U. S. and officers of the militia, to be vigilant, each within his respective department, and according to his functions, in searching out and bringing to punishment, all persons engaged or concerned in such enterprizes, in seizing and detaining, subject to the disposition of the law, all arms, military stores, vessels, or other means providing for the same; and in general, in preventing the carrying on such expedition or enterprize, by all the lawful means within their power: And I require all good and faithful citizens and others, within the U. S. to be aiding and assisting herein; and especially in the discovery, apprehension and bringing to justice, of all such offenders; in preventing the execution of their unlawful combinations or designs, and in giving information against them to the proper authorities.

In Testimony whereof, I have caused the seal of the U. S. of America to be affixed to these presents, and signed the same with my hand. Done at [LS] the city of Washington, the 1st day of September, in the year of our lord one thousand eight hundred and fifteen, and of the independence of the U. S. of America the fortieth.

A DEFENCE

Of the administration.

WHATEVER want of courage may have been manifested by the administration, when the enemy attacked the seat of government, it is certain that they discovered no want of spirit when the rights and feeling of the mechanics were to be invaded. If they fled from Ross a handful of panting, worn out troops, with a celerity and order, indicating unbecoming alarm—it must be confessed, that when the people were to be loaded with taxes the most odious and unprecedented in a free country, they advanced to the work with a resolution and coolness that would not have disgraced a North or a Hillsborough. So that setting off the spirit exhibited on one occasion, against the want of it on another, we shall find that the enemies of government have less cause for censure than is generally imagined.

Should it be objected, that in encountering the British they would have risked their invaluable lives; whereas in attacking the mechanics and imposing their odious burdens on the people, they only risked their offices; and from thence the inference should be drawn, that in the latter case less courage was required than in the former, I answer—if it can be made to appear that the administration are more attached to life than to office, then will the objection be valid. On the contrary, should it be believed that their offices were dearest to them, then I think it will be manifest that they discovered more courage in attacking the mechanics, than they would have done in encountering the British.

True it is, the fact cannot, like a problem of Euclid, be demonstrated with mathematical certainty. Yet it is believed that no one who has observed the pertinacity with which they have clung to the breasts of the treasury, will doubt for a moment, but that they would sooner part with life itself, than to be torn from their darling places, rendered, by a well known principle in natural philosophy, doubly dear to them, from the consideration, that were justice to take place, they would be separated from them forever.

Some may imagine that simply to die, would be to them a less painful consideration than to descend into private life, and consequently, to bid a long adieu to the Cogniac & Madeira, the Ice-creams, canvass-backs and oysters, and above all, to the flatteries, bows and smiles, which wait upon their high mightinesses, and raise them in their own estimation, at least, upon a level with Mars, Saturn and Jupiter; but they think the dread of being called to an account hereafter would turn the scale in favor of existence.—Here again an answer presents itself fully adequate to silence the objection.—These gentlemen happen to be of the school of the Philosopher of Monticello, who took his religious as well as his political creed from the land of Voltaire and Diderot, and who therefore, if they can be sure of not being called to an account in this world, wrap themselves, with the most stoical apathy in the web of scepticism, and laugh at punishment hereafter as the idle dream of fanaticism and credulity.

When to all this is added the well known fact, that Frederick of Prussia on one occasion, and that the duke of Marlborough on another, gave way to prudential considerations. When it is recollected that Jefferson fled to the mountains without injuring his popularity or retarding his advance to office, it cannot, without manifest injustice be charged to the administration as a crime, that they permitted their discretion for a while to become prececeptor to their valor, a thereby preserved their several holds on the teats of the treasury, and their valuable services to the people.

BONAPARTE, in his letter to the Prin Regent, compares himself to THEMIS CLES. Presuming that the reader will pleased with a sketch of the life of celebrated Athenian, we have selec it for the literary page of the Gleaner

THEMISTOCLES,

A celebrated general born at Ath The beginning of his youth was mar by vices so flagrant, and an inclinatio incorrigible, that his father disinher him. This, which might have dishe ened others, roused the ambition of T mistocles, and the protection whic was denied at home, he sought in c ing favors of the populace, and in sh the administration of public affair When Xerxes invaded Greece, The tocles was at the head of the Athe republic, and in this capacity the was intrusted to his care. While Lacedemonians under Leonidas w opposing the Persians at Thermop the naval operations of Themist and the combined fleet of the Pelo nessians were directed to destroy armament of Xerxes, and to ruin his ritime power. The obstinate wish of generals to command the Grecian f might have proved fatal to the pow of the allies, had not Themistocles fre relinquished his pretensions, and by minating his rival Eurybiades ma ter the expedition shown the world that ambition could stoop when his coun demanded his assistance. The Persi fleet was distressed at Artemisium by violent storm, and the feeble attack of t Greeks; but a decisive battle had not been fought, if Themistocles had not as threats and entreaties, and even call religion to his aid, and the favorable a swers of the oracle to second his me ures. The Greeks, actuated by dif ent views, were unwilling to make h by sea against an enemy whom they victorious by land, plundering their ties, and destroying all by fire & swo but before they were dispersed, Th tocles sent intelligence of their int tions to the Persian monarch. Xer by immediately blockading them with fleet in the bay of Salamis, preven their escape, and while he wished crush them all at one blow, he obli them to fight for their safety, as well for the honor of their country. T battle, which was fought near the isl of Salamis, B. C. 480, was decisive; Greeks obtained the victory, and T mistocles the honor of having destro the formidable navy of Xerxes. Fur to ensure the peace of his country, T mistocles informed the Asiatic monar that the Greeks had conspired to cut bridge which he had built across the H lespont, and to psevent his retreat i Asia. This met equal success; Xer hastened away from Greece, and wh he believed, on the words of Themis cles, that his return would be disput he left his forces without a general, a his fleets an easy conquest to the vi rious Greeks. These signal service his country, endeared Themistocles the Athenians, & he was universally c led the most warlike and courageous of all the Greeks who fought against Persians. He was received with most distinguished honours, and by prudent administration, Athens was s fortified with strong walls, her Pir was rebuilt, and her harbors were fil with a numerous and powerful na which rendered her the mistress Greece. Yet in the midst of that gl the conquerer of Xerxes incurred displeasure of his countrymen, wh had proved so fatal to many of his il trious predecessors. He was banish from the city, and after he had sought vain a safe retreat among the repub of Greece, & the barbarians of Thrace threw himself into the arms of a mona whose fleets he had defeated, and w father he had ruined. Artaxerxes, successor of Xerxes, received the il trious Athenian with kindness; and he had formerly set a price on his h yet he made him one of his greatest f rites, and bestowed 3 rich cities u him, to provide him with bread, wine meat. Such kindness from a mona from whom he perhaps, expected the hostile treatment, did not alter the timents of Themistocles. He still membered that Athens gave him b and according to some writers, the of not injuring his country, and there his inability of carrying on war ag Greece, at the request of Artaxerx bliged him to destroy himself by drin bull's blood. The manner of his d however, is uncertain, and while affirmed that he poisoned himself, o declare that he fell a prey to a vi distemper in the city of Magnesia, w he had fixed his residence, while in dominions of Persia. His rem were conveyed to Attica, and hon with a magnificient tomb by the A ans, who began to repent too late of cruelty to the saviour of his count Themistocles died in the 65th year age, about 449 years before the Chris æra. He has been admired as a man turally courageous, of a disposition of activity, ambitious of glory and en prize. Blessed with a provident discerning mind, he seemed to rise s rior to misfortunes, and in the midst adversity, possessed of resources w could enable him to regain his splen and even to command fortune.

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

SIR,

I have lately read in the Cincinnati ...zette of August 26th, a communication ...ative to Steam Boat Navigation on the ...stern waters: a subject of very high ...portance to the United States in general, ...well as to the western country in par...ular.

This communication sets out with stat... that it has been the habit in the east... states, without distinction of party, to speak of the western states in a con...temptuous manner, and as inferior and ...dependent, as previous to the revolution ...the British viceroys ruled the colonies."

...Such a habit can proceed only from ...ignorance and self conceit, and of course ...ought not be imitated by the enlightened ...citizens of the west, in speaking of the ...eastern states. The pamphleteers of N. ...York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, may ...justly indulged in the crude specula... which arise from the fancied supe...iority of the states they respectively be...long to, while we, with the map of the ...United States before us, with the pre...sent state of population, agriculture, ...commerce, and manufactures in view, ...form a reasonable anticipation of the fu...ture, take the broad ground of national ...interest as our theme, which includes ...the best interests of the states and of ...individuals.

President Washington, in his farewell ...address opposes the idea that difference ...of geographical position creates interests ...which are unfriendly to union—he thinks ...the contrary, that the difference in productions and in pursuits, which results from a difference in geographical position, may by means of easy communications between the different sections of the United States be made subservient to a more perfect union, than could otherwise be established.

It is stated in the communication above alluded to, that "the pine plank from which several of our houses were built last year, grew in the state of New York—a citizen from Maine, who had sledged in company with his son a family from thence to the head waters of the Allegheny, sold his horses, and purchasing rafts, descended to Cincinnati—from the spot where they descended to this spot, in a short time will our Steam Boats ascend." This being the fact, what is there to prevent the produce of the country on the Ohio from being sent up the Allegheny into the state of New-York, by the Cincinnati Steam Boats, and being carried across by sleighs in the winter season to the North river?—There is already one Steam Boat belonging to Brownsville, now plying between that place and the Falls of Ohio, and it is said to be in contemplation to build another of one hundred and thirty tons burthen. From Fort Cumberland, at the head of the Patomac navigation, a turnpike road is begun and carried nearly one third of the way to Brownsville, which is said to be one of the best turnpikes in the United States.

A turnpike road is also begun from this place eastward. The public spirit of the state of New-York is well known, so that there can be no doubt that the road from the Allegheny river to the North river will be duly improved.—There are then at least three points at or near the heads of the western waters to which the produce of the western country may be sent, to be thence carried across to the Atlantic seaports.

Although by the improvement of turnpike roads the expence of transportation will be greatly brought down, yet it will always be higher than by a down stream navigation; western produce will therefore go to market at Philadelphia, &c. at a greater expence than at New-Orleans, but the advantage of selling our produce where we buy our goods, will more than counter balance this disadvantage. The paper of the western banks would not, if we could send our produce to Philadelphia or Baltimore, at any tolerable rate, suffer the discount it is now at.

Nothing could be so fatal to the interests of the western country as that its only outlet and inlet to and from the ocean should be by New-Orleans, which the writer of the very interesting communication published in the Cincinnati Gazette, above alluded to, appears to think will be the case.

The extortion of the eastern waggoners has roused his just indignation, yet, I fear, that the injury we have sustained from that cause, which he is of opinion will produce a revolution, is hardly a foretaste of what we should have to suffer if our trade was confined to any one channel or mode of communication with the ocean. Indeed, if our only outlet was by the Mississippi, I have very serious apprehensions that the steam boat men and the merchants of New-Orleans, would turn out to be made of the very same stuff as the eastern waggoners and the merchants of Philadelphia and Baltimore.

TONSORIAL DEPARTMENT.

Concilio Manuque. Many and divisible

Our great & august Cousin of France, having good naturedly, "ended his political life," on the "glorious, but fatal field of Mount St. John," we command the attention of our liege subjects, to be withdrawn from European affairs, and to be fixed on the more important concerns of our own government; and particularly we demand their admiration & applause for the interesting subject of the present communication, of which the never resting, ever teeming brain of the Emperor has been some time in serious travail.

Our imperial institute has been long engaged in forming a style, suitable as the medium of communication for so vast a subject; but unfortunately the language in use at our imperial court, even with all the assistance we could glean from Johnson, & Chateaubriand, is found too barren and nerveless, to do justice to the dignity of the matter; but as

"Beauty needs not the foreign aid of ornament,
But is, when unadorn'd, adorn'd the most,"

so our discoveries need no artificial aid to blazon them to the world; they are rendered celebrated, as containing in themselves, the very essence of universal utility.

When we take a view of the different inventions and introductions, that have been made for the benefit of man, our bosoms swell with gratitude, towards their philanthrophic authors; a monument is thus raised, more glorious than all the mausolea of ancient and modern times. We find the Heaven of the ancients filled and composed of these benefactors.—Bacchus introduced the vine; Ceres improved agriculture; Codrus amplified the alphabet; Hercules & Theseus those knights errant ornaments of their age, freed the world from robbers and monsters; Osiris introduced the plough, and Dedalus and Archimedes, those cunning steam men, of the "olden time," took out many a patent in their day; Faustus was born for the introduction of printing, and Swartz for that of gun powder; Newton has systematized nature herself, and Franklin, the modern Prometheus, has drawn fire from heaven, and subjected it to the will of man; all these discoveries we acknowledge are important, and have justly imortalized their authors; but it was reserved for our time, and for our imperial self, to cap the climax of perfectability in invention.

Not to keep my beloved children, longer in suspence, the subject of the present interesting discovery, is the colouring of Whiskers; the Emperor's mind had long been in a depress'd state in consequence of the want of a succedaneum for this purpose; this depression was much encreased, by the encreasing necessity for this heroical ornament and appendage, owing to the present military complexion of the world; our royal bosom began to despair; we supposed the arcanum was beyond the reach of mortal ken, when we were suddenly relieved according to the strict rules of the Epopee

Nec deus intersit
Nisi dignus vindice nodus
Incederit.

Here was a case in point; we were in a dilemma, and nothing but the intervention of supernatural agency could relieve us; this aid was extended to us; the goddess of the Rain-bow, the seven colored Iris disclosed herself to me, as of old did the nymph Egeria, to the sage Nama, and perched on the brilliant arch, revealed to my astonished intellects, the so much sought for secret; never did the disciples of Pythagoras listen with more delight to the Egyptian lore of their master, nor did the sailors of Columbus feel greater rapture, when a new world burst upon their gaze—We have the important treasure, and we are preparing to make the application for the immediate use and benefit of such of our liege subjects, who are not like Sictrig, blest with a "silken beard." Those unfortunates among my beloved children who are discouraged from encouraging this graceful ornament, from the fear of having it "brown, sandy or white," need be under no further apprehensions; the great secret we now possess, enables us to assure a grateful nation, that each cheek may in future be graced with Whiskers, black as the Raven's wing, and glossy and fine as the silk of Persia: attend therefore ye faithful!

See and believe!

Delightful task! to change the fiery beard,
And teach the stubborn Whiskers, where to grow.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S
Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE*, in this Country.*

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most compiete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female:

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 5 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by
J. P. & J. W. SKELTON, at their Wholesale and Retail Apothecary and Drug Store.

DOCTOR HANDY'S
WORM
DESTROYING LOZENGES.

A safe and efficacious medicine for destroying and bringing away WORMS.

MAY be used with safety by children of any age, or as common physic by the most delicate constitution, in any climate, without restraint of diet, or the smallest danger from cold. It may be given with advantage after the small-pox or measles; or as a family medicine, in any case where physic is necessary.—The most frequent seat of worms in the human body, is the intestinal tube; but occasionally they have been found in almost every other part of the body.

Some very extraordinary cases of Worms, of an unusual form and appearance, being brought away by these Lozenges, have been made public in England, where the rapid sale of the medicine has exceeded any thing of the kind ever known before; and has also proved, to a demonstration, its approved superiority, as an athelminthick, to the numerous puffed-up, useless nostrums, which are daily advertised in the newspapers.

A single dose of this valuable medicine has often been known to remove half a pot full of the Teres or Round Worms.

A few doses are generally sufficient to remove the Ascarides, a small white worm, the seat of which is either the stomach or rectum.

Even the Tape Worm, at all times the most difficult to destroy, may, by persevering in the frequent use of this medicine, be totally removed in the course of a few weeks.

To select cases, with the names of people who are not known here, and living at a great distance, would be useless, and take up too much of the readers time. We shall therefore only observe, for the benefit of those who are acquainted with the symptoms of worms, that they are known or suspected to exist by a pain in the stomach, attended with a sudden depression of spirits before eating; at other times the belly is hard, painful and distended with wind—costiveness, head ache, and trembling of the limbs, with a sense of something rising in the throat—pale complexion and emaciated body, with weakness and irregular appetite—convulsive, epileptic or falling fits—pains in the back and side, and frequent itching of the nose, and sometimes of the anus. The above and a long train of afflicting diseases may all be occasioned by worms, which are much oftener the cause of death than is commonly believed.

The above Valuable MEDICINE, is sold,
ONLY, by
